SOME SPRING STYLES.

Prevailing Fashions in Clothes and Dogs for Last and Great Seasons.

It is customary in the spring of the year to poke fun at the good clothes of our friends and well-wishers, the ladies, but it occurs to me that this spring there is a small field for the witty and sarcastic critic of female attire. There has not been a time since I first began to make a study of this branch of science when the ladies seem to have manifested better taste or sounder judgment in the matter of dress.

Even bonnets seem to be less grotesque this season than heretofore, although the high, startled bonnet, the bonnet that may be characterized as the excelsior bonnet, is still retained by some, though how it is retained is always a mystery to me. Perhaps it holds its place in society by means of a long, black pin, which apparently passes through the brain of the wearer.

Strut costumes of hand-made fitting and unobtrusive shades of soft and comfortable goods will be generally in favor, and the beautiful and symmetrical American arm with a neatly fitting sleeve on the outside of it will gladden the hearts of the casual spectator once more.

The lady with the acute elbow and tailored clavicle will make a strong effort this season to abolish the irritating and extremely attractive sleeve, but it will be futile.

The small doll will be worn this season in shades to match the costume. For dark and brown combinations in street dresses the black-and-tan will be very much in favor, while the black-and-drab pug will be affected by those wearing these shades in dress. Small pugs that are warranted not to bag at the knees are commanding good prices. Skirt design to match jacket or fox-trimmed garments or spring wraps are now being sprinkled with camphor and laid aside for the summer. Coach dogs of the spotted variety will be worn with polka-dot costumes. Tall, willowy hounds with wire tails will be much affected by slender young ladies and hydrophobia. Antique dogs with weak eyes, asthma and an air of languor will be used a great deal this season to decorate lawns and railroad crossings. Young dogs that are just budding into doghood will be noticed through the spring months trying their new teeth on the light spring pantaloons of male pedestrians.

Styles in gentlemen's clothing have not materially changed. Lavender pantaloons, with an air of settled melancholy and benzine, are now making their appearance, and young men trying to eradicate the droop in the knees of last summer's pantaloons may be seen in their luxurious apartments, most any calm spring evening.

ILL-FATED DISCOVERERS.

Hard Fate of the Men Who Located Some of the Great American Mines.

The superstitious belief is an old one, that unless the discoverer of a camp meets an untimely or bloody end, his find will never amount to anything; and this seems borne out by facts, since all the discoverers of the great gold mines in the United States, with but few exceptions, have, as the saying goes, "died with their boots on." Of thirty-eight booming towns in early days, the locators of twelve were killed by bullet, three were buried in their creations by cave-ins and the rest drifted away with tide of immigration, have become lost in oblivion or died and were buried in paupers' graves.

George H. Fryer, from whom the celebrated "Fryer Hill," of Leadville, derives its name, died at Denver not long ago from an overdose of morphine administered by his own hand. Two years previous to his death he was worth a million of dollars, but he died a pauper and almost without a friend.

Bill Boole, the discoverer of the Consolidated Virginia, was named and who sold his claim for twenty-five dollars, a pony and a bottle of whisky, came to his death by an overdose from a bucking mare near Dayton, Nev. Bill Boole, the discoverer of the great standard mine in Mono County, Cal., slept his life away in a snow-storm, while making his way to the mines.

Colonel Story, who gave his name to the county in Nevada where the Comstock is situated, was killed in battle by the Pyramid Lake Indians.

Thomas Page Comstock died a beggar in a strange land. "Old Panache," as he was known in the mining camps, committed suicide at Bozeman, Mont., on September 27, 1870, by shooting himself. He was the leader of the famous Big Horn expedition that was sent out by Nevada capitalists in search of the Lost Cabin mine, supposed to be somewhere among the Big Horn mountains. The expedition was a failure, and Comstock, whether from disappointment or from some other cause, while camped near Bozeman, drove a pistol-ball through his head and died instantly. He was buried there, and his grave is unmarked and unknown.

Near the wild spot where twelve years before the hidden treasure of Alder Gulch was first revealed to him, William Fairweather was laid to rest. Like poor "Old Panache," this erratic soul stranded on the shoals of dissipation, although each in his day had turned a key—the one silver, the other golden—which unlocked millions for others but nothing for themselves. William Farrel, who "struck" Meadow Lake, died a victim to remorse in one of the leading hospitals of San Francisco, "haunted by the spirit of one thousand deluded pioneers and prospectors passing and repassing his dying bed." The locator of the famous Homestake, in the Black Hills, is said to have turned round agent. Times going hard with him, he attempted to stop a stage loaded and prepared for just such emergencies, and he was planted alongside the road by the tender-hearted express agents whom he had tried to rob and kill. Homer, of the Homer district, followed in the suicidal track of Comstock. After squandering a small fortune he shot his brains out on the streets of San Francisco. Doughtnut Bill, "Old Eureka, Kelse Austin, Lloyd Magruder, "Nine Mile Clark," George Hankinson, Henry Plummer and a score of others died violent deaths in one way or another and reaped nothing from the rich mass each had made in his day. Doughtnut Bill was planted in the Lone Mountain cemetery in Utah, in 1884; a lone grave under a scrub pine, and a frontier mining town of California tells where poor "Old Eureka" sleeps his last sleep; Kelse Austin was killed and buried in Elcho County, Nev., fifteen years ago.

MILK OR BUTTER.

Points to be Considered by Every Farmer and Dairyman.

Every man who enters into the dairy business must determine for himself which branch he will follow, and will probably settle the question according to his surroundings. As a rule, farmers are very fond of following the same occupation as their neighbors, and usually there are but few butter-makers in sections where milk is made to sell in cities, and few sellers of milk where the custom is to make butter.

At the same time, it is not always advisable to run in the same groove with your neighbors. There is much to be said in favor of milk-selling. There is nothing but the raw material to be made and shipped, requiring but few utensils and little skill beyond feeding the cows judiciously, but for this very reason the occupation is always crowded. Men who can do nothing else can feed and milk cows and haul the milk to the railroad station, but a milkman who sells these products of his milk also, multiply, until how we hear of starvation prices for milk in the neighborhood of all large cities.

With butter-making in addition to producing the raw material, the dairyman becomes a manufacturer; and while it is true that he may remain for all time only able to produce the crudest possible article, yet the possibilities are all open to him of reaching the highest standards and reaping the largest profits. No matter what his surroundings, or where he may be located, if he has the right material in his own brain and heart, there are even possibilities of a national reputation open to him.

The progressive step is taken from being a producer only of the raw material to that of a manufacturer, there must, of course, be additional responsibility and greater skill at command of the successful butter-maker. As he rises in the scale, the number of his competitors becomes less and less until he feels a loneliness when he reaches the summit of his fame.

It has been figured out that while it costs 1-3-4 cents on a dollar's worth of goods for transportation, it costs 18-1-2 cents for the same quantity of milk for transportation. These are, of course, only relative figures, governed by a man's immediate surroundings, but they give some idea of the difference in cost of delivering the two articles. While butter may be sent any distance, provided it is well packed and properly made, milk transportation must be always limited to some more convenient and economical method of handling it than that of delivering the two articles.

So far as the drain upon the farm is concerned, the philosopher all decide in favor of butter, claiming that the man who sells milk sells his farm, all of which is probably more a matter of theory than of fact. Any farm that runs on milk and butter is not properly taken care of, and with intelligent management any farm will retain its fertility, without regard to the amount of milk sold off it. It has been proven in Europe that the milk of a cow properly taken care of will produce several hundred pounds of butter in a year, and with the modern methods of deep cold setting and use of the centrifugal machine this milk-milk is still more valuable than it was a few years ago. The successful dairyman makes every edge out, and is never above turning to profit the so-called waste products of the dairy.—American Dairyman.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

—Glaze the bottom crust of fruit pies with white of an egg and they will not get soggy.—Albany Journal.
—Give your hens (those confined) exercise by sprinkling a little wheat among straw of any kind.—Toledo Blade.
—Sheep must be kept in dry yards or there will be danger to their feet. Ewes with lambs should have grain daily, at least until they come to pasture.—Montreal Witness.
—Cows at calving need little care, the less the better if in a loose box or open field. "Fussing" over them is always provocation to injury. Give no grain but a loosening diet of bran and roots for some days, and gradually increase food as febrile symptoms pass away.—Exchange.
—Stirred bread: One quart flour, two large teaspoons baking powder, two teaspoons salt, two eggs and sweet milk to make a stiff batter; bake in a biscuit tin. To be broken, not cut, and eaten hot.—Waterbury.
—Remedy for sore mouth: Take a teaspoonful of frost water, which can be obtained at a drug store; put it in a cup and fill it with hot water; set it back where it will steep slowly without being stirred, and drink of it once in an hour or two and repeat the dose three or four times a day, for a few days.—Cleveland Leader.
—To serve eggs, baked or shirred: Butter a deep earthen pie-dish, or little china or stone dishes made expressly for this method of cooking eggs, and into it break carefully as many eggs as are required for use, without crowding; sprinkle salt and pepper and the least bit of butter on top before putting in a hot oven to set, which will require about two minutes. A little chopped parsley or ham may be added if desired.—The Culver.
—To cream potatoes chop some cold boiled potatoes. Put two or more tablespoonfuls of butter into a frying-pan, when hot rub into it smoothly a spoonful of cream but do not brown; add a cup of rich milk, and when it boils a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, pepper and salt, then the potatoes. Boil up well and serve. I have used instead of butter pork or bacon grease, and sometimes for variety a little chopped onion.—Boston Globe.
—Bathe the horses' shoulders with cold water or brine as quick as the colic comes off, before the sweat begins to dry, and rub off the collars and saddle with a wet cloth. This will prevent sore shoulders. All changes of food should be gradual, but in proportion to the work. Heavily taxed muscles make demands on the stomach; hence, increase the food after work, never in anticipation. A horse fed up before he is called to work gets soft and fat.—Western Rural.
—A farmer who is noted among his neighbors for his fine pigs, feeds the sow a mixture of two bushels of buckwheat and one of corn ground together, the meal being made into a soap. This food is given in moderate quantities only, apportioned so as to keep the sow in a somewhat thin condition, and without making flesh or fat. Before farrowing the sow is lightly fed, and if it can be avoided no grain is given. In this way the sow farrows safely, and never feels inclined to molest the young pigs when they are dropped.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Building With a History.

Among all the public buildings in New York city to-day there is not another that has so ancient and eventful a history as the hall of records, or register's office in the City Hall Park. It was erected about the middle of the last century, when Broadway was a country road, when the only theater stood on the site of the present Hotel establishment, when Center street was a lake, William street a swamp, Canal street a river, and the Bowery a lonely lane, running up through huckleberry bushes.

During the Revolutionary war this building was the chief British prison for distinguished patriots. Here Captain Nathan Hale, the intrepid Yankee, was confined after his capture with a plan of the British defenses of Long Island in his shoes, and in the public common adjoining, exactly where the city hall now stands, he was hanged as a spy. Here, that tough old rebel, Ethan Allen of Fincroga fame, was imprisoned after his capture while trying to take Montreal with thirty men; and the treatment which he and others received caused the building, which now stands near the city hall station, the elevated road, to be regarded by the patriots with about the same abhorrence as attached to Andersonville after the late war.

When the British evacuated New York in November, 1783, the jailer, Cunningham, having won the same infamous reputation as the confederate jailer Wirz, was asked by his patriot prisoners, "What is to become of us?" "You can go to the devil!" shouted Cunningham, as he flung the keys into the middle of the floor and made off.

It was forty or fifty years after that before the battle of the Revolution was remodeled and the bell transferred to the Bridewell. It now rings prisoners to rations and prayers over on Blackwell's Island.

A Careful Fellow.

[Arkansas Traveler.]
A young man, evidently from a part of the country where the shriek of the railroad engine has never been heard, called on the way asked: "Full any yet?" "What?" "Marriage license fell any yet?" "No, same price." "Well, I come in the other day, an' er fellow told me they moult fall air-ter county court met." "No, they are the same price." "I'm mighty sorry 'ut that, fur I've been engaged to a gal fur about two years. I loves her mightily, an' she says that she ain't goin' to wait on me no longer, but I wouldn't give three dollars fur no w'at'er license ter county court met." "Much obliged, cap'n. Jis write it out, an' I'll go down and break the good news to Susan. I'll tickle her mighty nice to death when she hears uv my good luck." "The license was issued and the young fellow hurried to the wagon yard where Susan was stopping, and conducted her to the office of a justice of the peace.

SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN

FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1886.

CHAS. M. MEACHAM - Editor.

The Ohio Democratic state convention endorsed the President Cleveland's administration.

Finding that McKenzie cannot be defeated by fair means they now propose to try foul means.

Congressman Dockery, of Missouri, claims that every Republican office-holder in his district has been ousted.

The Democrats of Pennsylvania have nominated L. Gov. Black for Governor. The administration was heartily endorsed.

At the Baptist Mission in Onondaga, 2,222 persons were baptized by six administrators in a single day. Only two were baptized at a time.

A religious paper estimates that heaven contains 30,321,843,750,000,000 rooms sixteen feet square. This is getting things down to a pretty fine point. Ex.

Will some friend who can speak for Mr. Laffoon please step to the front and say whether or not he endorses the circulation of lies to induce votes in his interest?

It seems that the Blackburn family is not yet satisfied with seeking and holding office. A Bluegrass paper is trying to boom Jim Blackburn for Lieutenant Governor.

It is now about settled that Asher G. Caruth will be put out by the Democrats of Louisville to defeat Mugwump Willis for Congress. A call signed by thousands of voters will be published in a few days.

The Henderson News advocates rotation in office in one column and the endorsement of Laffoon in another. Consistency does not seem to be one of the virtues of our amiable contemporary of the Bridge city.

Capt. Wallace Gruelle's new paper, the Grayson Gazette, came to last week, bright, sparkling and red-hot for Robertson for Congress. It has already been placed upon the list of our favorite exchanges.

The new revenue bill increases the price of marriage licenses from $1.50 to $2.00 after Sept. 15th. Those contemplating matrimony this fall can save half a dollar by having the knot tied within the next two weeks.

The County Judge of Jessamine county has decided that a man's sweetheart who accepts presents from him under promise of marriage, must return the presents if she gives him the mitten. Maybe the court knows how it is himself.

Hon. W. H. Wadsworth, the Republican Congressman from the Ninth District, declines to stand for re-election. He was elected in 1884 by 102 majority and as he is the ablest Republican in the district a Democrat is pretty apt to succeed him.

The statement now going the rounds of the state press that Mr. Henry M. Caldwell will take charge of the editorial columns of the New Era next month is incorrect. Mr. J. O. Rust, the present editor, will continue to edit the New Era as heretofore. Mr. Caldwell will supercede Mr. H. D. Wallace as book-keeper and business solicitor for the paper.

King Alexander, of Bulgaria, has been deposed and taken to Russia where he is now held a captive. He was not disposed to be peaceable in his relations towards Russia and the poor little government over which he resigned thought it best to sacrifice their greatest soldier and ruler in order to placate their powerful and sensitive neighbor.

Some of the very parties in this city who are most energetic in their opposition to McKenzie voted the Republican ticket in the last election. Do the true Democrats of the county propose to let their votes be influenced by men who will deliberately scratch good men on their party ticket when every vote is needed in a close contest.

Mr. Jas. G. Blaine, whose name is perhaps familiar to some of our readers, is stumpng Maine in behalf of the Republican ticket and his own Presidential boom. Unlike R. B. Hayes, Mr. Blaine will not realize that he is dead, but is laying his wires to run for President again in 1888. Well, the Democrats have no reason to fear a man whom they licked in one fair fight.

The Congressional race in the Fourth district is "red-hot and still heating." The candidates are Tom Robertson and Judge Alex. Montgomery. The canvass has already passed the bounds of decency and courtesy and the candidates are accusing each other of being drunkards, thieves, etc., etc. If half that is said about them be true, neither of them is a fit man for so high a position.

Editor Cutting, who has been causing so much trouble on the Mexican border, has been set at liberty. The appeal was heard and the Supreme Court confirmed the sentence of the lower court but ordered his release upon the ground that Medina, the injured Mexican, waived his right to prosecute for civil damages. The decision amounted virtually to a back-down on the part of the Greaser government.

The opposition to McKenzie in this county is gradually disappearing, since the people realize where his headquarters are located and by what motives it is inspired. As this becomes more and more evident a great deal of dirty work is being done, and down right lies are being put in circulation by somebody which are in some instances too contemptible to notice. One of these, which we mention merely to show to what depths of human depravity men can sink, is to the effect that Mr. McKenzie entered into a conspiracy with Maj. Breathitt to elect the latter county clerk and that his Herndon speech was the result of this conspiracy. We have information from a minister of the gospel that this infamous slander is being circulated in some parts of the county. We do not know where it had its origin, but this is but one of the many lies that have been started, which show how desperate the opponents of McKenzie are becoming and what tactics some of them propose to pursue in the present race. The time has come for all men of honor and decency and lovers of truth and fair-dealing to put the seal of their condemnation upon such methods by refusing to ally themselves with men who are capable of descending to such depths of moral and political turpitude. We esteem and respect Mr. Laffoon and, knowing him as we do, we do not believe he will endorse the methods his friends are pursuing in this county. If so, then he is unworthy of the honors he has already received at the hands of Christian county Democrats.

The unreliable Washington correspondent of the Louisville Times fully sustains his reputation by the statement made that "Bell McKenzie was appointed postmaster at Hopkinsville through Laffoon's influence."

The facts have never been published in regard to this appointment and may be of interest at this juncture. Soon after Assistant Postmaster General Stephenson went to office he and Congressman Laffoon had an understanding. Stephenson was to have the naming of the Hopkinsville postmaster and at once decided to give the place to his cousin, Mr. J. Bell McKenzie. In return for this concession on the part of Laffoon, Stephenson was to fire out Republicans in the district as fast as Laffoon could name their successors. This explains why Laffoon made a clean sweep of Republican office-holders in the district and at the same time show conclusively that he had no hand in the appointment of Postmaster McKenzie. These are the facts in the case.

Mr. R. H. Yancey has been superceded as editor of the Clarksville Chronicle by Mr. John Holmes. During the railroad excitement Mr. Thos. Herndon inserted a card in the Chronicle and ordered several hundred copies of the paper containing it. When the paper came out the editorials were all in favor of the opposite side of the question from that advocated by Mr. Herndon and he refused to take the papers ordered. The proprietor of the paper then agreed to print a second edition, substituting other editorial matter favorable to the Herndon side of the railroad proposition. This was done and as Mr. Yancey refused to consent to it, his connection with the Chronicle was severed. The paper is owned by Mr. W. P. Titus, whose conduct in the matter is severely criticised by the other Clarksville papers.

The Henderson News takes the position that rotation in office should be applied to Congressmen in order to give all hands a showing. If a District wishes to reward petty politicians for imaginary party services this is one way to do it, but if it wishes to make its district and its State a potential factor in national matters, the only way to do so is to send its best man to Congress and keep him there for several successive terms. With the experience McKenzie has had he would be qualified to at once become a leader in Congress upon his return. The interests of the Democracy of the District cannot be better subserved than by sending him back.

The following item, which was cabled from London, one day this week, will be of interest to country editors and others who experience difficulty in solving the meat and bread problem:

Giovanni Succi, a gentleman residing in Milan, aged 45 years, professes to have discovered a liquor, a small quantity of which will enable anybody to fast from thirty days to two months. Succi, as an experiment, agreed to fast for thirty days and began his task on the 18th. A committee is watching him day and night.

The "Laffoon canvassers" whose duty it is to loaf about the streets and tell voters from the country how to vote in the Congressional primary, are over-doing the thing. They annoy and harass gentlemen who come to the city to such an extent that they become disgusted at their methods and become more firmly resolved to stand by their own county man.

The Bulgarians are on the war-path again and have overthrown the provisional government established when Alexander was deposed and the unthrone King's loyal subjects are looking for him to put him back at the head of the government. The other powers are watching and waiting to see what Russia will do about it.

Amos Adams Lawrence, who was identified with the settlement of Kansas, is dead.

KENTUCKY KNOWLEDGE.

The Union county fair last week was a pronounced success.

The Henderson Gleaner is appearing daily during the Fair this week.

Lightning killed a jack worth 1,000 in the stable of Col. I. S. Irvin, in Madison county.

An old man named Jacob S. Wilburn was killed by a falling tree in Monroe county.

Robt. Armistead has been succeeded as editor of the Clinton Democrat by Jno. R. Kemp.

Cassius H. Clay, of Kentucky, has been appointed to a $1,000 clerkship in the War Department.

Pat. Nash, night watchman on Muldraugh's Hill, was killed on the track while asleep last week.

Will Kidd and Miss Jinks McKenzie eloped from Paducah to Metropolis and were married Tuesday.

Henry Collins killed Ben Miller and fatally wounded Bill Mourning in a free fight over a woman at Somerset, Monday.

Pat Sullivan was shot and mortally wounded by Montie Higgins, with a rifle, while stealing watermelons in Hardin county.

W. H. Perkins, a blind boy, aged 19, of Owensboro, has invented a pocket-type-writer which is only 7 inches long and 4 inches wide.

Gen. H. P. Ransom, of Lexington, died Wednesday from the effects of a 24-grain dose of morphine, taken with probable suicidal intent.

The survivors of the 22nd Kentucky Infantry, Gen. D. W. Lindsay, of Frankfort, commander, will hold a re-union at Ashland, Ky., Sept. 1st.

Warren county will settle upon her choice for Congress by a Democratic primary election Saturday. Hallsell, Skiles and Rhea are the candidates.

Mrs. Gubert Babb, wife of a young farmer of Logan county, committed suicide by hanging Monday. Her parents disposed of themselves the same way some years ago.

Wm. Goggin, col., aged 12, was shot and killed by another negro boy named the Logan, at Stanford. The Journal says this makes 100 men killed in Lincoln county since the war.

Lige Mayes, the new Democratic postmaster at Springfield, Ky., supported the Republican ticket at the late election and such a racket has been raised that he has been forced to resign. It is said that Robertson will lose Washington county on account of having Mayes appointed.

Wm. M. Hill, aged seventy, gave Miss Mary Magee, aged twenty, a number of useful presents in expectancy of marriage. Miss Magee had other ideas, however, and the Jessamine Circuit Court has just decided that she must return the presents to the ancient donor—Stanford Sournal.

Since our last issue five couples of Kentucky runaways have been speared in Jeffersonville, viz: Moses Colli and Lizzie Lovel, of Louisville; Jno. L. Matter and Emma B. Wonderful Cures. W. D. Hoyt & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists of Rome, Ga., say: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Buckle's Arnica Salve for two years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced Consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We warrant to them always.

The Trouble With Mexico. WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Minister Jackson has telegraphed the Department of State concerning the reported release of Cutting. The release of Cutting will not effect in the least Mr. Sedgewick's mission to Mexico. The Government does not concern itself with any question of damages due Mr. Cutting, but will use the information obtained by Mr. Sedgewick in furtherance of negotiations to secure the repeal of Mexican laws, so far as they affirm the right to try American citizens for offenses committed on American soil against Mexican laws.

The Arrasres-Mondragon murder is still a subject of correspondence and inquiry, and at present the only grievance of which this government can take cognizance is that of kidnapping Arrasres, who was kidnapped on this side of the border. It could not be expected that Mondragon would be surrendered for trial on American soil, a special clause of treaty intervening to warrant the refusal upon Mexico's part to surrender one of her citizens for any crime.

Cholera Returns. Rome, Aug. 25.—Cholera returns in Italy for twenty-five hours; Barletta, 3 new cases; 3 deaths; Bisilga 7 cases; 2 deaths; Ravenna, 3 cases; 1 death; Forli, 5 cases; 1 death; in all other infected districts, 33 cases and 10 deaths.

From a careful perusal of the papers of the district we gain the rather startling information that four gentlemen—Messrs. McKenzie, Laffoon, Ellis and Adair—will be elected to Congress. If it be in order we would like to amend the proposition by striking out all after the first name in the list.

Godey's Lady's Book for September is a particularly handsome number. The opening illustration is an especially fine process cut entitled "Papa's Pocketbook," showing a chubby little fellow intent upon putting doling curls with the bank notes found in the box; this is from a French picture, a companion to the one given last month. The fashions in colors and black show all the latest novelties for early autumn. A pretty colored work design, and numerous black ones delight the lovers of needlework. BASE BALL.

Hopkinsville vs. "Keen Cutters" at Dunbar's Cave. Hopkinsville Wins by a Score of 12 to 9.

The Hopkinsville Club and the "Keen Cutters" of Pembroke went over to Dunbar's Cave, Tuesday, and played the match game of the season. Several games have previously been played between these nine this season, but none proved as interesting as the game on Tuesday. Of the two thousand people at the Farmers' Reunion, fully eight hundred witnessed the game. The game was a very close one throughout, but our home team proved too much for the "Cutters." When the score, which was 12 to 9 in favor of Hopkinsville, was announced, the boys were loudly cheered.

Mr. Frank Beaumont umpired the game, and while some of his decisions were considered a little off, he was not partial to either club and makes a good man for the place. The "Clippers" and nine of this city, will play the second nine of Pembroke in Sharp's Field to-morrow afternoon. The game will be called at 1:30.

F. Jarrett next Friday, Aug. 27, 2 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of appointing committees, &c.

HERNDON, KY.

Aug. 25, 1886.

Ed. KENTUCKIAN:

Since my last, nothing of unusual interest has occurred.

The drought of the past eight weeks came to a happy end on Sunday last, and the faces of our farmers look as much improved as the appearance of the fields of tobacco. Corn in this section is seriously injured, but no doubt it will also be greatly improved.

Our citizens have had three interesting and somewhat exciting topics of discussion in the past few weeks, viz.: The county election, the I. A. & T. Railroad and now the Congressional race. While the result of the first was not altogether such as we desired, yet we feel in nowise chagrined. As is always the case, South Christian, and especially Garretttsburg district, did her duty nobly.

The Democracy of this district warmly and unanimously approve of Judge Winfree's course in contesting the election of Esq. Anderson, and we would have felt indignant and outraged had he pursued any other plan, believing as we do, that he, Winfree, was justly and fairly elected to the office which he sought.

As to the Congressional race it is amusing to see the effect which the inconsiderable opposition in your town has upon visitors from here while there. While all of us are for McKenzie, we at the same time feel exceedingly kindly towards his opponents, especially the Hon. Polk Lafoon. Our farmers go to your city and they are numerous interviewed by a few anti-McKenzie men. They, probably feeling so well assured of McKenzie's success, would not more than half of them go to the polls, but for the animus towards McKenzie displayed by his enemies. After these interviews they all come home perfectly enthused in McKenzie's behalf, and I predict a fuller vote for McKenzie on the primary of the 18th prox than was ever cast in this county for any candidate before and his majority in this county will be practically unanimous. Now you disgruntled McKenzie men "put that in your pipe and smoke it," and the next time you undertake to beat a Christian county man with an alien, be sure that you have some more effective weapons than envy, prejudice and personal disappointment. Why, sir, if McKenzie were dead and his corpse put on ice there isn't another man in the county or district who could make in this county a respectable race against it. This may perhaps read like the ravings of enthusiasm, but less forcible language would scarcely be sufficient to describe the high degree of appreciation in which Jim McKenzie is held not only here but even in your own town as well as all other sections of the county where his matchless oratory as well as his splendid physique and unequalled social qualities have made him the idol of his constituents, and while I say all this in behalf of McKenzie I would not detract one iota from the merits of the Hon. Polk Lafoon. I voted for him before and my admiration for him now is greater than then. He is a gentleman whom I very much admire and would vote for in preference to any other man in the district with this one exception. So you see it is not prejudice, envy or disappointment that influences me. It is not that I love "Clearless, but Rome more."

As to the present status of the I. A. & T. R. R. I have only to say that our people generally favored its being owned by the C. O. & S. W. R. R. But my own observation of railroads has been such as to make me indifferent to its ownership. Knowing as I well do that railroads are everywhere run just as other business enterprises in the interest of the owners and not for the benefit except incidentally of the country or cities through which they pass, especially such small cities as Clarksville, Hopkinsville or Herndon. Our chief regret here is that Capt. Maner, whose genial manners and accommodating disposition had made him a universal favorite, is no longer in charge of it, and while we regret to give him up, we are satisfied that he will soon find another position more commensurate with his abilities as well as more lucrative in its emoluments. Good luck to you Captain, is the wish of your friends all along the line.

The church here (Coleman's Chapel) will be dedicated next Sunday week, Sept. 5th. A large crowd is expected and a number of able ministers. The church is of the Methodist faith and was named for Benj. Coleman, familiarly known as "Uncle Ben." Uncle Ben's health has improved very much of late and his friends hope to see him out on that day.

Miss Lella Steger, of Paducah, recently visited the family of Squire T. H. Majors at this place. She left more than one aching heart behind which nothing but a speedy return I fear will comfort.

Jno. Randolph has been with us for several days until yesterday. He kept his highway hot while here, but says it had been traveled entirely too much during his absence to make him claim it as private property any longer.

Mrs. M. B. Robinson who has been quite ill, is now, (thanks to the skill of her physician, Dr. Paine, and the careful nursing of her neighbors and friends), able to get up and will soon be out again.

Knights Templar, Attention.

Last Sunday night during the storm, lightning struck the Jones Bros., dwelling house, near Beverly. Mr. John Jones who was in the house at the time, was knocked insensible and remained in that condition several hours. The chimney was badly damaged and the house considerably torn up. There was no other person in the house at the time it was struck and Mr. Jones was in adjoining room to the one most damaged, which accounts for his narrow escape from instant death.

The new assessor, Mr. M. A. Littlefield, will begin the assessment for 1887 the 15th of September. The work, under the new law, will be completed by Dec. 15 and the sheriff will begin the collection of taxes Jan. 1st, four months earlier than under the old law. A great many articles heretofore exempt will be taxed under the present law and we may expect some tall kicking. However, there is one pleasant feature about it all. The rate is a little lower than heretofore, being 95 cents instead of $1.00 on the hundred dollars for State and county purposes.

Cheap Rates.

The L. & N. is now offering very cheap excursion rates to the Cincinnati and Louisville Expositions, which are now open. The round trip rate from Hopkinsville to Louisville is $5.55 including Exposition ticket. The rate to Cincinnati is $3.00 more, or $8.55 from Hopkinsville. These rates are for the whole Exposition season.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23, 1886.

To the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN.

The Register of the Treasury, General Rosencrans, has prepared for publication a compilation of unpaid balances due by the United States to its citizens.

It embraces balance of principal only, and no steps have yet been taken toward a compilation of interest obligations. It appears that there is a large sum of money in the Treasury, made up of little sums accumulated by return of interest checks which have at various times failed to reach the persons for whom they were intended.

Heretofore persons who were fortunate enough to ascertain that there was a credit to their name in the Treasury on account of unpaid interest, have had great difficulty in getting their money, as every possible obstacle was put in their way and most unreasonable proofs of ownership and identity demanded.

No one except a "favored few" were ever allowed to see the list, unless it was the attorney through whom the little coterie operated. It is now said that Congress will call for this publication, and then all the bondholders who have not claimed their interest will get it. It is a pity that the world over to find its creditors, while our Government not only keeps quiet when no demand is made on it but even when demand is made puts all obstacles possible in the way of recovery, and also goes so far as to refuse information when specifically called for by persons rightfully entitled to it, by giving it to the Government.

The President has designated Col. J. H. Baxter, Chief Medical Purveyor of the Army, to act as Surgeon General until he makes an appointment to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Brig. Gen. Murray. There has been a heated contest for this coveted prize among Army officers, and the President has been much perplexed as to what action to take.

Col. Baxter, who has been given the temporary appointment, is next in line and entitled by right of seniority to the place, but he is a Republican and so is at a disadvantage. He has a strong influence however, even among Democrats, and may possibly be the fortunate recipient. The Secretary of War, Endicott, and Baxter are warm personal friends, and the Secretary is doing his best to secure the appointment for his old friend.

The action of the President in temporarily appointing Baxter is an encouragement to other applicants as the vacancy already exists, and if Baxter is to be promoted why defer the permanent appointment?

The talk of the Congress during the last session, filed 8,630 pages of the Congressional Record. This does not include the index and appendix. It exceeds by 1,500 pages the number of pages of any previous session.

The new Democratic Campaign Book, prepared under the auspices of the Democratic Executive Committee is now in the hands of the printer, and will be revised, printed and ready for distribution in a short time. The book will contain a spicy review of the past Administration of the Government under Republican rule, and will discuss a number of subjects of contemporaneous importance. The committee are being in possession of funds to enable it to distribute the book gratuitously, has determined to send it, prepaid by mail, to the address of any person who will make application therefor and transmit the sum of one dollar.

The Republican Congressional Committee is also hard at work, and will soon have ready for distribution some interesting reading matter. Notwithstanding the warm weather the buildings occupied by the respective campaign committees can be found brilliantly lighted every night and a score or more faithful and zealous disciples found in their shirt sleeves hard at work and getting campaign fuel into form with which to scatter the enemy in the fall.

There are but few officials of high degree in the city at present. Most of them have gone off on a summer jaunt to return in the middle of September the first and fifteenth. The clerks do not seem anxious to get away this summer, except the new appointees, who are anxious to experience the feeling of drawing a whole month's salary in advance on their pay for the first thirty days. The sensation is a delightful one, as may be imagined, and loses none of its sweetness with age.

The distribution of valuations captured during the late war has commenced under the recent act of Congress, and many homes have already been made happy by the return of old family relics and heirlooms supposed to have been lost for all time. The department has been reduced to much trouble in finding the rightful owners of some of the property, but there will be very little of it left without a claimant. Applications have come in without number, and in many cases no trace of the property could be found. It is thought that most every person who had valuables taken away from them during the war have applied for restitution, hoping to find that it was turned in to the Treasury.

The Southern Exposition.

Louisville, Aug. 21, 1886.

The Southern Exposition of 1886 opens in this city on the 23d inst., and feeling sure from past experience that your readers will be interested in learning something of the preparations made this season, and the attractions secured by the managers, for the entertainment and instruction of the thousands and tens of thousands who will make a pilgrimage hither during the eight weeks that will spend there the opening, your correspondent determined to be on the ground early.

Now for something about the Exposition of 1886: It is needless to say that after three Expositions and the experience gained, the managers are prepared to present not only more varied attractions; that they have added largely in the way of improvements to the buildings; that thirteen acres of new roof have been put on the main building, and that with the new arrangement of the Music Hall, Art Gallery and other sections, it looks like a new establishment. To those who have not visited the Southern Exposition heretofore, it is proper to say that the new building has an area of about fifteen acres with an average interior height of forty feet, and an exhibit space therein of six hundred and seventy-seven thousand four hundred square feet. The company owns every acre of the Exposition for a great exhibition; it is an independent self-sustaining and successful institution; it is the only great Exposition that has been successfully lighted in its part at night by electric lights, and the electric system is the largest single plant in the world. Its personal references are 3,000 exhibitors and fifteen hundred thousand visitors in all parts of the globe. Success in the past has been phenomenal, and the future promises corresponding growth.

I must say that it is a source of gratification to find that nearly everything is ready for the opening, although every one is busy putting on the finishing touches. Many and extensive exhibits are already in place and before the opening day arrives everything will be ready. All parts of this country are represented and the foreign departments will be unusually good.

The great Music Hall has been converted into a fine concert hall with a handsome stage and elevated platform, and here Prof. Damrosch and his splendid orchestra of sixty-two members, will, on the opening day, begin a series of forty-eight grand concerts. Cappa with his much strengthened and improved band will inspire the people with martial and concert music, after Damrosch.

Former visitors will be glad to find that the Art Gallery, formerly at a considerable distance, is now opposite the Music Hall. This arrangement not only adds much to the convenience of visitors and gives greater satisfaction to exhibitors, but also adds to the attractiveness of the art collection, and much increases the popularity of the ensemble of the Exposition. The collection of this year is far superior to any hitherto, not only in number but in character.

Some features are entirely new, especially the collection of printing and lithography. Contributions have been received and still are coming in, from all quarters, especially from the largest houses in the country. This will of itself be worth a visit to the Exposition. Another new feature is the Natural History Museum, which will be the largest ever exhibited. Still another will be the "Japanese Village," peopled by the curious race, where they will live and work just as they do at home. Last, but not least, I must mention now, is the grand exhibition of the "Battle of Gettysburg," one of the most thrilling and spectacular exhibitions ever presented to human eyes.

The suggestion that there be no seated seats in the Music Hall has been received and still are coming in, from all quarters, especially from the largest houses in the country. The Tables Turned.

Written for the Kent.

I have a right amusing little incident to tell you relative to one of the literary young ladies. How she mistook me for a greenhorn, how I was certain that she was one, how she attended to her own business, and how I drew her out to the extent of her rope (which was not very far) and utterly discomfited her. Don't think now that I am speaking boastfully, for even a Wake Forest student could have done that. I merely mention this to show how true the old adage is: "Give a fool rope enough and he will hang himself."

A young lady came here several weeks ago from Virginia, and the reputation that preceded her for brains and literary attainments was something wonderful to hear. She was visiting a young lady friend of mine, and I called an evening or two after her arrival, though I thought I could make no impression on her. I made up my mind, however, to say as little as possible, but merely to sit at her feet (as someone did at Gamaliel's) and listen to the sound of her voice as it was carried to the realm of History, Science, Art and Poetry. To supply defects in high flow expression I read Augustus John Evans' "Macaria" and Elmer's "Blades of Grass," read in the Encyclopedia Britannica as far as A. S. was introduced. She proved to be tolerably good-looking, somewhat plump and of medium size and figure. After interchange of the usual platitudes that are bandied between strangers, my asking her if she knew Miss Smith, of King Henry County, Va., and she asked me if I knew Mr. Ferdinand Albrecht, of Queen Caroline. I thought I had never visited Raleigh before or had tried our native chewing gum, and she asked me if I had ever been in the valley or had ever seen Pocahontas—my remarking in a lively manner as though I thought it extremely original, that we have had a beautiful day but rather windy and she assenting and observing that she thought we would have rain in a week or two, and then all this small talk was both boring and absurd for a few moments and then the big guns of conversation were unlimbered and brought to the front. Suddenly arousing herself and leaning her cheek on her hand she began to speak in a sotto voce sort of way: "Did it never occur to you, Mr. Smartale, that the nineteenth century is fraught with materialistic tendencies, that as our civilization advances our poetry declines, that the very best works of the drama are threatened by this impure tide of realism in high hats and low stages, that bids fair to engulf into its insatiable maw all the pure and liberal ideas of that advancement in religion, art and science that we would naturally expect?" (here she quotes a passage from Miss Cleland's "Altruistic Faith," that no one here learning of her, would be surprised to find her in the "milk" way) has on bologna sausages. In answer to this replied feelingly and with tears in my eyes: "Will you allow me the honor of grasping your hand and confessing that you are the only original and kindred spirit and although I am but an untutored bumpkin compared with yourself, yet I have always entertained these ideas and am moreover of the opinion that if we take a cursory view of our own combinations in supply and demand, that have tended to militate against the transit of the Corlies current and properly consider the argument of Demosthenes and Susan B. Anthony in their 'Alabama Claims' speeches, to say nothing of a casual glance at the polygamic tendencies of the Fiji Islanders, we will be led to the conclusion that the silk worm traffic will be materially impaired, and that it is extremely probable that the ancient grudge existing between Martin F. Tappen and Aristoxenes will prove the means of throwing some light on the sinking of the Oregon, and the hieroglyphics on the clock at Central Park, and eventually explode the Pasteur theory to a thousand fragments." Here I paused a moment to apply my handkerchief to my eyes and note the result. Everything was working well, the prescription on her classic brow, the protruding eyes and clutched hands testified eloquently to the success of my flimsy plot. "But, continued I, if you will read the 'Koran' 'Valmiki' and 'Mother Goose' in their respective vernacular dialects, you will be convinced that Professor Tyndall's lecture on bacteria, vibrations and their relation to the stivoli and pneumonia of disease will tend to give a new impulse to the theory that the ancient impulse to one occasion used Cleopatra's needle to darn Mark Anthony's pants (just then I heard a slight gasp) and will effectively disprove the assertion that Joan of Arc was cashed in at the first battle of Mansfield. Here I launched off in a long quotation from Aeschylus and recited Ajax's defiance of the lightning in maintenance of my position. When I looked up to find the effect of my argument, I found she had fainted. Sic semper parva foot!

"Nature's Joy."

There is a charm in shady groves, Where summer zephyrs idly play, There is contentment where the wild rose, And where the bright carols usher in the day.

But when disease has banished Joy, Has turned to darkness, health once had, When what we prize serves only to annoy, And foul despair is even on our way, Take heart, for the blessing over pray, Gooch's Mexican Syrup will Consumption slay.

The custom of throwing an old shoe after a newly-married couple comes from the ancient Jewish custom of handing a shoe to a purchaser of land on the completion of a contract (vide Ruth, iv, 7). Parents also gave a shoe to the husband on a daughter's marriage in token of yielding up their authority. Urquhart, in his "Fables of Heracles," states "At a Jewish marriage I was standing by the bridegroom when the bride entered. As she crossed the threshold he stooped and struck her with the heel of a shoe on the nape of the neck. I am at hand to administer correction, as is here used to signify obedience of the wife and the supremacy of the husband. The Highland custom is to strike for good luck, as they say, with an old shoe for your money than the meaning implied—Aunt's Constitution.

He Talked too Much.

"These building associations may be good things," said a man I met at the station, "and they may teach a man to save his money, and enable him to get something ahead, and to build a house of his own, but I don't think I need any building association in mine. A year ago last August I took my present position. I hadn't a dollar to my name, then. Now I have a nice house and lot, all paid for, and money in the bank, and I haven't been very economical either."

"And what position do you hold?" inquired a solid-looking man.

"My position? Oh, I'm a conductor on this road. You say you're in the railroad business, too, eh? Conductor?"

"No."

"Engineer?"

"No."

"What then?"

"Oh, I'm one of the directors of this company. Your name, please, Peck's Sun."

"Am delighted with Tongaline; it is the remedy for neuralgia." So says Waid Howard, M. D., Boonville, Mo., and physicians generally have warmest words of praise for this almost infallible remedy for neuralgia, rheumatism and headache. For ladies subject to nervous, neuritic, or sick headache Tongaline has no equal.

Sam Jones says: "There is something wrong with our colored people. Four hundred dollars and a pitcher five thousand dollars." But Sam should remember that the five thousand-dollar pitcher has a much better delivery than the four-hundred-dollar pitcher—It is Transier.
